The Austrian construction business

The Austrian construction business offers work to 300,000 people. There are global players that are planning and implementing projects all over the world.

They construct and complete all kinds of private and public buildings, lay underground pipelines, use timber construction technology and are experts in road construction or tunnelling.

Some even build power plants and impressive bridges.

They have a lot of affiliated companies and subcontractors that offer jobs not only in the main construction business itself, but also in related construction businesses.

In Austria there are a lot of local small and medium-sized companies that often specialise in one area such as interior completion or the planning process.
